FASHION | A SWEET GESTURE FROM JON W/ CUBERDONS LÉOPOLD

Why not work together with one of the bloggers that gave me advice right from the start of my blog? I got to know Jonathan Zegbe (founder of jonthegold.com) at the Zalando Blogger Awards, which was my first event ever. I was super nervous and didn't know a single person out there. So I just went there by myself and started talking to random people, which was actually really cool and a complete new thing to me. At a certain point, Jon and I started talking about blogging. In fact, he was giving me all these tips and tricks to improve my blogging and how to get better at it. I was most of all inspired by his passion and love for fashion. We exchanged cards and kept in touch after the event. Since then, we're buddies and we had been talking about creating a blogpost together. Now we finally did and here's the result. We had a looooot of fun and hope you like it!

Love,
Joya
